JUDGMENT AFFIRMED.

Lower Supreme Court Ousted Penalty Opinion.

Democracy Affirm the Verdict Against the Anarchists.

Election Set for the Second of Next November.

The Socialist Press Furious and Threatening.

Judgment Affirmed.

Ottawa September 14.—The supreme court this morning rendered a decision in the anarchist case. Just before opening the court everyone seemed to have a feeling that something was going to happen. Before the hour for convening the court, lawyers and reporters seemed to be very busy going and conversing with each other in subdued tones. Even Bailiff Smith partook of the solemnity of the occasion. When the court opened and the usual announcement was made by the bailiff, the entire audience arose and remained standing until the court was seated. Justice Magruder, who has been writing the opinion of the court, was the first to speak. He said: The case now before the court is one of great importance, and has been attended with much labor in its preparation. The record is very voluminous, containing over 1,800 pages of printed matter, and the assignments of error are numerous. The court has given to the case its careful consideration, and has reached a unanimous conclusion. The opinion which I am about to read is the opinion of the court, and not my individual opinion. I have endeavored to express the views of the court clearly, and to avoid the use of technical terms as far as possible. I will not read the entire opinion, but will state the substance of it. The opinion is a long one, covering 225 pages of closely written manuscript, and about 30,000 words.

This is the announcement of Judge Malcolm. It is not my intention to offer a separate opinion as I should have done if I had differed from the court. I have carefully examined the record and given the questions arising on it my very best thought, with an earnest and conscientious desire to faithfully discharge my duty. I have found the decision sustained by the law and does justice between the people of the state and the defendants, fully warranted by the law and the evidence.

THE CASE IN COURT.

Chicago September 14.—A Daily News Ottawa special says: At 9:20 this morning Justice Magruder began his announcement of the

C. W. SMITH,
Manager of the Gazette.

The Gazette regrets to announce that Councilor Adams is to be unable to run for himself and the Democratic ticket.

The municipal campaign is fairly opening, and the fight promises to be a warm one. As the result of the election will determine the question of whether Democrats or Republicans shall run the city government for the next year, every voter should be up and doing.

The patch of Prince Lobanoff of Bulgaria does not seem to be strewn with roses. "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown," since the prince has forgotten to take his off. He is not a very lucky light however and deserves to have the mark of success rest on his standard.

An idea of the cost of life which Great Britain's eastern wars entail may be gathered from the following statistics taken from London Truth.

The butcher's bill for the Burmah campaign has been received from Simla. The British army has lost from disease and in action 93 officers dead, 31 wounded, 193 invalided. Soldiers 824 dead, 111 wounded and 1,582 invalided. Natives of all ranks 1,001 dead, 412 wounded, and 2,584 invalided.

The oyster industry in the state of New York requires a capital of $6,000,000 and the labor of 20,000 men. According to the report of Commissioner Blackford there is "a decrease in the supply of oysters in state waters." Since 1863 the oyster industry has undergone a complete change. Now 60 per cent of the annual oyster supply comes from cultivated beds. The natural beds in Rhode Island and Connecticut are practically extinct, and the great beds of Maryland and Virginia are being rapidly exhausted. Mr. Blackford thinks that a natural franchise in the bays would be the best plan for the encouragement of the industry.

Col. McCaull whose comic opera company has been coming with light opera has bought the right to Sydney Rosenfeld's new opera "The Lady of the Tiger" and will open the summer season at Wallack's theatre. It is based on Frank Stockton's story of the same name, and called forth a very kindly letter from that author. "The Begum" will be produced at the Fifth Avenue theatre this coming season by the colored Tuxedo minstrels in parlor American operas, said to be of superior merit which are to be given in New York. The American play-wrights are also doing unusually well. Once let the fashion get started and American writers for the stage will not have to travel abroad to get proper remuneration for their work.

The following description given by the New York World is interesting from the fact that Mr. Stevenson is en route to Colorado Springs. Letters have been received by a prominent resident of the city asking him to call on the author, which promises a big hundred dollars or more for some one.

Robert Louis Stevenson, who was just reached this country on the high seas on a special and opportune visit. His physical features are pleasing in character, but he looks very much like a man who has been sick or ill health and hard work. He was the first to step from the gangway to the dock, and was followed by his wife, a handsome woman, who looks younger than her husband, although she is probably older. Mr. Stevenson's hair is dark brown and he wears a heavy mustache. He is about five feet eight inches in height, and weighs about 150 pounds. He was dressed in a suit of dark gray tweed, with a soft felt hat of the same color. He wore a light overcoat on his arm, and carried a small valise in his hand. Mrs. Stevenson is a tall, handsome woman, with dark hair and eyes. She was dressed in a dark suit, with a large hat trimmed with feathers. She carried a small satchel in her hand. Mr. Stevenson's son, Lloyd, is a boy of about 12 years of age. He is a bright, intelligent looking boy, and is dressed in a suit of dark clothes. He carries a small satchel in his hand. Mr. Stevenson's daughter, Fanny, is a young woman of about 20 years of age. She is dressed in a dark suit, with a large hat trimmed with feathers. She carries a small satchel in her hand. Mr. Stevenson's son, Lloyd, is a boy of about 12 years of age. He is a bright, intelligent looking boy, and is dressed in a suit of dark clothes. He carries a small satchel in his hand. Mr. Stevenson's daughter, Fanny, is a young woman of about 20 years of age. She is dressed in a dark suit, with a large hat trimmed with feathers. She carries a small satchel in her hand.

Mrs. Parnell Stevens has organized a musical club in Newport, R. I., for the season. She declares that the club is not a society affair. Mrs. Parnell Stevens is a well-known musician and has been a member of the Philharmonic Society of New York for many years. She is a graduate of the New York College of Music, and has been a member of the faculty of the same institution for several years. She is a member of the New York Philharmonic Society, and has been a member of the faculty of the same institution for several years.
